

Asset Based Citizen-Led Development

How can we explore and stimulate locally led contribution and participation to support people in understanding their power?

Training for Africa Based Practitioners

What:

This dynamic 6-session, 18-hour virtual training, specifically designed for African practitioners, will introduce the core principles and applications of Asset-Based Citizen-led Development (ABCD) in the context of communities on the African continent.

Times and Costs:

2024 Dates: 3, 10, 17, 24, 31 October and 7 November

Session Times: 9:00 am to 12:00 pm South African Standard Time (SAST).

Sessions will be held using Zoom and will be interactive so good bandwidth is necessary

Cost: (for participants based in Africa only)

Corporate: R1,000/day x 6 = R6,000

Organisations: R800/day x 6 = R4,800

Community Members: R450/day x 6 = R2,700

Goals of training:

- Understand the core principles of Asset-Based Community Development (ABCD) and its relevance in self-determined communities.
- Identify, connect, and activate the assets within their local communities, including individuals, associations, institutions, and physical resources.
- Explore strategies for leveraging community assets to address local challenges and foster sustainable development.
- Critically reflect on the lens of ABCD at the intersection of equity, diversity, and social justice.
- Develop action plans to apply ABCD principles in their respective communities to promote inclusivity, collaboration, and resilience.

This training is delivered by experienced ABCD practitioners based in South Africa, and is supported by Australian practitioners from the ABCD Institute, which is located at DePaul University, Chicago, USA
