Real Estate is within the College of Business and has a major and two minors, one of which is for non-business students. Those who have an interest to work in the real estate community are provided a foundation to be at the local and national levels, and to adapt to future changes within the industry and in the economy. Employment opportunities exist across the spectrum, from ownership and brokerage, to insurance and management.

Property sectors can include office, industrial, multi-family, retail, and hospitality and entertainment. Expanding the definition to consider the financial services side of real estate yields an additional list of career opportunities, from mortgage lenders and brokers to researchers. To learn more and hear stories straight from alumni who concentrated their studies in this area, visit ask.depaul.edu.
