DEAR GRADUATE,

On behalf of the entire DePaul community, I would like to congratulate you on your graduation. I would also like to thank you for what you as a student have brought to DePaul University. Your hard-earned degree represents the power of lifelong learning to shape your life and transform our world for the better. We are proud that you will put your education to work in the career of your choice as a DePaul alumnus. We are confident in your success and ask that God will bless you abundantly in the years to come.

Sincerely,

Rev. Dennis H. Holtschneider, C.M.

DePaul is the largest Catholic university and the 13th-largest private, not-for-profit institution of higher learning in the country. The university enrolls about 23,500 students in 10 colleges and schools and offers a wide range of academic and professional programs on four Chicago-area campuses. DePaul’s reach extends internationally, from degree programs offered in Kenya to study-abroad opportunities around the globe. With Chicago, the metropolitan area and the world as its classroom, DePaul has a reputation for innovative courses and personalized instruction. The university is the hub of an innovative and diverse community that enables students, faculty, staff, alumni and friends to advance personally, professionally and intellectually.

Founded by Vincentian Fathers in 1898 to teach the children of immigrants, DePaul remains committed to students from a broad range of cultural backgrounds, especially first-generation and non-traditional students. Named for and inspired by the life of St. Vincent de Paul, the university has a distinctive mission: to foster through higher education a deep respect for the God-given dignity of all persons, especially the materially, culturally and spiritually deprived, and to instill in its students a dedication to the service of others.

Now at its midpoint, DePaul’s Vision 2018 strategic plan is producing strong results that support student success. Retention and graduation rates have reached record highs; a greater proportion of DePaul students participate in high-impact educational opportunities such as internships, studying abroad and service learning; and students are increasingly satisfied with how their classes prepare them for careers.

DePaul’s distinguished colleges and schools are known for the excellence of their academic programs and the achievement of their students. The College of Liberal Arts and Social Sciences encompasses more than 45 undergraduate and graduate degree programs and is home to 10 centers and institutes.

Students can pursue studies in such areas as media art, creative or professional writing, ethics, geographical information systems, forensic archaeology, international relations, public health, or a second language.

DePaul established the College of Science and Health in the 2011–12 academic year. The college departments include the natural sciences, health science, mathematics, nursing and psychology, as well as five centers, including the Center for Community Research and the DePaul Family and Community Services. Students pursue programs that take advantage of opportunities in science and health care fields.

DePaul’s College of Law has been a highly respected name in the Chicago legal community for more than a century, and is nationally known for its intellectual property, health law and public interest law programs, among others. In addition to the Juris Doctor, the college offers several joint degree programs, four graduate law programs and a Master of Jurisprudence. Through the breadth and depth of its curriculum, and its extensive opportunities for experiential learning, students are prepared to be excellent lawyers who advance the law and impact Chicago and the world.

The Driehaus College of Business and its Kellstadt Graduate School of Business offer respected programs that provide real-world knowledge and connections. The college houses programs that are nationally recognized, including three top-10 rankings for its accountancy programs based on a Tax Talent survey of hiring managers and top-25 rankings for its undergraduate and graduate entrepreneurship programs from the Princeton Review.

The College of Computing and Digital Media offers a wide range of practical and innovative undergraduate and graduate degree programs. The college houses the School of Computing, which features cutting-edge technical degrees in computing, security, and computer game and web development; the School of Cinematic Arts, which showcases cinema, animation and screenwriting degrees; and the School of Design, which features degrees in media arts and graphic, game and experience design.

The College of Education’s primary mission is to prepare students to become teachers, educational leaders and counselors. Partnerships with the Chicago Public Schools, the archdiocese, charter and private schools as well as with social service agencies have enhanced the experiences of faculty, our students and those Chicagoland individuals whose lives they touch.

The School for New Learning is an internationally recognized leader in educating adults, offering flexible undergraduate and graduate programs. It pioneered individualized degree programs, online learning for adult students, the assessment of learning outside the classroom, and competence-based education. Its innovative approach to education has been used as a model around the world.

Dedicated to excellence in music teaching and performance, the School of Music’s distinguished faculty includes members of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra and the Lyric Opera.

The Theatre School, founded as the Goodman School of Drama, is one of America’s oldest and most respected theatre training schools. A new facility to house The Theatre School opened in 2013, and construction of new School of Music facilities began in 2015 as part of DePaul’s ambitious redevelopment of its Lincoln Park Campus.

The College of Communication’s programs examine communication in all forms, with an emphasis on research, theory, media literacy and ethical practices. Programs include relational, organizational and intercultural communication; journalism; media and cinema studies and public relations and advertising. Faculty with extensive academic, industry and international experience, along with award-winning student-led organizations, have positioned the college as one of the top places to study communication.

DePaul’s Irwin W. Steans Center for Community-based Service Learning, home to the Egan Office for Urban Education and Community Partnerships, has earned national accolades for integrating academics and community service. DePaul’s Irwin W. Steans Center for Community-based Service Learning has earned national accolades for integrating academics and community service. The center supports more than 3,400 service-learning students a year in more than 180 courses from across the university.

DePaul’s 15 intercollegiate men’s and women’s athletic teams are members of the NCAA Division I, BIG EAST Conference. In 2016, the women’s basketball team marked its 14th consecutive appearance in the NCAA tournament. Numerous DePaul teams claimed BIG EAST Team Academic Excellence Awards in recent years.

This year’s graduates and DePaul’s more than 172,500 living alumni are linked by more than their degrees. DePaul’s graduates have succeeded in a learning environment that values both academic achievement and community responsibility—values that will remain with them throughout their lives as they carry on the heritage of St. Vincent de Paul.

THE VINCENTIAN CHARACTER
DePaul, a Catholic, Vincentian and urban university, takes its name from Saint Vincent de Paul. The religious community founded by Saint Vincent, commonly known as “Vincentians,” established the university and endowed it with a distinctive spirit: to foster in higher education a deep respect for the God-given dignity of all persons, especially the materially, culturally and spiritually deprived, and to instill in educated persons a dedication to the service of others. The women and men of DePaul have retained this spirit as a highly valued heritage and a vital influence in every succeeding generation of the university’s development.

SAINT VINCENT DE PAUL
Saint Vincent de Paul (1581–1660), for whom the university is named, lived in seventeenth century France. He was a compassionate and deeply spiritual priest who dedicated his life to serving the poor. He founded the Congregation of the Mission, commonly known as the Vincentians. This is the Roman Catholic religious community that established and continues to sponsor DePaul University.

Vincent brought together and inspired groups of like-minded women and men to join him in addressing the needs of the poor and the reasons for their poverty and marginalization.

Vincent also was a man of wisdom who believed in the power of education to transform the world for the better. He believed in the sacredness of life and the God-given dignity and inestimable value for each person. He is aptly known as the “Apostle of Charity.”

THE COAT OF ARMS
The main section of the shield consists of nine panes forming a heraldic cross, the symbol of the Christian faith. The center pane holds a heart, which represents Saint Vincent de Paul, for whom the university is named. Because he spent his life in the service of God and people, especially the poor, Saint Vincent is considered to be the Apostle of Charity. The pane above the heart holds a crescent symbolizing Mary, the Immaculate Conception, the patroness of the United States.

The upper section contains a fleur-de-lis, symbol of France, Vincent’s homeland. Three are shown, representing the Trinity. This section also carries two symbols of Chicago. A line suggestive of the wall of a fort represents Fort Dearborn. The phoenix rising from the flames atop the shield is both a symbol of the Resurrection of Christ and the resurrection of the City of Chicago after the Great Fire of 1871.

The inscription 1898 refers to the year DePaul was first chartered by the State of Illinois as St. Vincent’s College. In 1907 a new charter was granted in the name of DePaul University.

The motto of DePaul University, “Via sapientiae monstrabo tibi,” is taken from the biblical book of Proverbs (4:11) and is translated, “I will show you the way of wisdom.”

THE TREE OF WISDOM
The symbol expresses the university’s integration of education and religion by combining the forms of a tree and a cross. Central to the symbol is a modified cruciform, suggestive of the Catholic roots of the university. This cruciform also is expressive of the human form, with arms uplifted and outstretched suggesting a strength of knowledge and values.

Viewing the symbol as a single unit, one sees our “Tree of Wisdom” resting firmly on the ground, with its square base and raised limbs in symmetry. It has age and fullness in its trunk and limbs, suggesting tradition; and youth and simplicity in its internal negative spaces, representing leaf forms suggestive of sapling growth.

Typographically, the symbol incorporates and combines the lower case letterforms d, p and u. The “u” form extending upward from the trunk is a true arc, a section of a perfect circle. Its position relative to the figure represents support, rather than containment, just as the university supports the human spirit in the pursuit of knowledge and the deepening of religious values.
DePaul University and each of its 10 colleges and schools have a distinctive heraldic banner. These banners play a prominent ceremonial role in the university’s commencement ceremonies. The university banner features DePaul’s colors, red and blue. The interrelationship between the university and the city is illustrated by the skyline motif. The banners of each of DePaul’s 10 colleges and schools are shown below, in the order in which they became a part of DePaul.

COLLEGE OF LIBERAL ARTS AND SOCIAL SCIENCES
Academic Colors: White for the arts and letters, citron for the social sciences
The alternating panes of color symbolize the interrelationship of the diverse courses of study in the arts and social sciences.

DRIEHAUS COLLEGE OF BUSINESS
Academic Color: Taupe
The “party per cross” design uses two tinctures to impart the quantitative nature of business enterprise.

SCHOOL OF MUSIC
Academic Color: Pink
Heraldic bars of white against a pink field represent the 10 lines of the musical staff, a translator of the musical language.

COLLEGE OF LAW
Academic Color: Purple
The double-reversed chevrons illustrate the traditional scales of justice associated with the field of jurisprudence.

SCHOOL FOR NEW LEARNING
Academic Color: Yellow green
The “gyronny,” a heraldic pattern of eight lines radiating out from the center, symbolizes the school’s wide-ranging programs of study.

THE THEATRE SCHOOL
Academic Color: Brown
The “lozenge,” or two-color diamond pattern, symbolizes the arts and also is reminiscent of the harlequin of the Commedia dell’Arte, theatre of the Italian Renaissance.

COLLEGE OF COMPUTING AND DIGITAL MEDIA
Academic Color: Yellow
The triangular shapes represent the three primary areas of emphasis in the school, and the reversal of colors of the triangles in the squares the fundamental binary nature of computing.

COLLEGE OF COMMUNICATION
Academic Colors: Silver grey (communication studies) and crimson (mass communication)
The arrows call to mind early communication models representing sender and receiver, but depicted here in a dynamic geometric model that acknowledges the complexity of human and mediated communications.

COLLEGE OF EDUCATION
Academic Color: Light blue
The “saltire” (a corner-to-corner cross) is the heraldic symbol illustrating change and growth, the dual results of the educational process.

COLLEGE OF SCIENCE AND HEALTH
Academic Colors: Yellow for the sciences and sage for health
The alternating panes of color symbolize the interrelationship of the diverse courses of study in the sciences and health.
ACADEMIC DRESS
The tradition of academic dress dates back to the Middle Ages, when gowns were a common form of attire in early European universities. Since those universities were founded by the church, students were required to wear the prescribed gowns at all times. They represent an adaptation of the cape or mantle worn by religious dignitaries in processions.

The traditional color of academic gowns has been black, but over the years, other colors and styles were adopted. In 1896, the colleges and universities of the United States adopted a uniform code governing academic dress.

The style of gown varies according to the academic degree awarded. The color of the lining of the hood indicates the college or university of the wearer’s degree.

For graduates of DePaul University, sky blue with a red chevron is used. The border of the hood is trimmed in a color indicating the field of study. Below is a list of the most common academic colors.

THE DEPAUL UNIVERSITY MACE
DePaul University has created, as part of its permanent institutional academic regalia, a university mace. The mace was commissioned by the Office of Mission and Values.

Originally used as a weapon in medieval warfare, the mace has been used ceremonially since the 12th century. Traditionally bearing coats of arms or other heraldic images, the mace was borne in procession—always on the right shoulder—as a symbol of civil, ecclesiastical and academic authority and jurisdiction.

Designed by the renowned liturgical artist Joseph Luiz Rameriz of Axis Mundi Studios in Chicago, the DePaul University mace has been hand-crafted utilizing the finest materials and the talents of crafts-persons on two continents. The silversmith for the work was Huseyin Baykal, a distinguished Turkish artist. The silver work of the mace is called repoussage. It is a process of beating sheets of silver on dense beds of tar. The silversmith taps the silver thousands of times with steel punches to bring forth the intricacies of the envisioned design.

Measuring approximately 48 inches long, the mace is made of hand-turned yew wood. Covering the yew wood are twining silver rose stems and buds symbolizing the passage of time and the renewal of life.

Surmounting the mace is a phoenix from the university’s coat of arms. The phoenix rising from the flames is both a symbol of the Resurrection of Christ and the resurrection of the City of Chicago after the Great Fire of 1871. Also at the top of the mace are enameled pendants of hearts and the crescent moon. These symbols also are taken from the coat of arms. The heart represents Saint Vincent de Paul. The crescent symbolizes Mary, the Immaculate Conception and patroness of the United States.
GRADUATION WITH HONOR
The bachelor’s degree with honor is conferred upon candidates who have achieved exceptional scholastic proficiency. The distinction “Summa Cum Laude” is conferred upon those candidates who have demonstrated remarkable scholastic ability by attaining a 3.85 grade point average. The distinction “Magna Cum Laude” is conferred upon those candidates who have demonstrated definite superior ability by attaining a 3.7 grade point average. The distinction “Cum Laude” is conferred upon those who have distinguished themselves by attaining a 3.5 grade point average.

The level of honor is verified after spring quarter. The honor notation is recorded on the student’s diploma and academic record.

VIA SAPIENTIAE AWARD
In 1961, DePaul University established the Via Sapientiae Award to honor individuals who have served devotedly the purposes and ideals of the university. It takes its name from the university’s motto: “Viam Sapientiae Monstrabo Tibi,” taken from the Book of Proverbs and translated from the Latin as, “I will show you the way of wisdom.” This defines the university’s highest function and provides the criteria for evaluating the contributions of those persons who have spent their lives in the university’s service.

PLEDGE OF SOCIAL RESPONSIBILITY
Those graduates wearing green ribbons on their gowns today have made a personal commitment to practice social responsibility in their life and work.

THE PRESIDENTIAL MEDALLION
The presidential medallion symbolizes the authority conferred as a sacred trust by the Board of Trustees upon the president as the chief executive officer of the university. By virtue of his office, the president is personally entrusted with the responsibility of promoting the mission and values that underlie DePaul University’s service to its students and its distinctive identity as a Catholic, Vincentian and urban institution.

Created in 2004 by the renowned Chicago silversmith William N. Frederick, the DePaul University presidential medallion is in the form of the university seal, cast in silver and suspended from a chain with links to the heraldic symbols of each of the university’s 10 schools and colleges.

The new medallion was commissioned by the Office of Mission and Values and the Office of Academic Affairs in honor of the inauguration of the Rev. Dennis H. Holtschneider, C.M., as the university’s eleventh president.
The university has recognized the following graduating students as exceptional leaders who have given their time, talents and service to improving the quality of student life at DePaul. These individuals epitomized the qualities of leadership during their tenure at DePaul University.

Since 1954, DePaul University has recognized academic honorary societies in order to highlight students’ superior academic achievement and leadership. Students are selected to join honorary societies based on their superior academic record within their specific major or across all colleges. DePaul University strives to recognize students’ outstanding academic performance and is proud of the rich tradition that these valuable organizations have provided to the university community. Many graduating students choose to highlight their honorary society membership by wearing academic honor chords at graduation. Below is a list of each honorary society, its academic discipline or specific group, year it was founded at DePaul University and academic honor chord colors.

RECESSIONAL
Little matters more in this world than the education of children. As the National Public Radio education correspondent for nearly 30 years, Claudio Sánchez has devoted his life to helping us see and understand the state of American education. He tells the stories of individuals, schools and educational reform to a nationwide audience, all with a love for how we might serve young people’s possibility.

Sánchez’s commitment took root at the United States–Mexico border in his home town of Nogales, a town straddling the border of Arizona and the Mexican state of Sonora. Initially, he attended schools on both sides, until his parents prompted him to finish his education in the United States, with dreams that one day he would attend college.

Their dreams were realized when Sánchez received a scholarship to attend college first in Mexico City and later at Northern Arizona University, where he began studying journalism. When he and a friend enrolled for an independent study focusing on broadcasting, he discovered a lifelong passion for radio as a medium that engaged both his love for writing and performance. In college, he developed a radio program supported by his university targeting the Latino community through music, reports and cultural events.

He began his professional career in radio as a reporter in Tucson, Arizona. From there, he went to a station in El Paso, where he was a news and public affairs director. Sánchez soon rose to executive producer. Throughout his time there, he covered Latin America and U.S.–Mexico border issues. In 1989, Sánchez began his long association with National Public Radio on the education and immigration beats. Education reporting was a natural fit for Sánchez. For a brief time in his life, he worked at an elementary and middle school in Tucson, teaching writing, English and Spanish as a second language. His experience as an educator provided him unique insights on a wide variety of imperative educational topics.

Today, as NPR’s senior national education correspondent, he uses his skills and privileged platform to focus upon what he calls the “Three P’s” of education reform: politics, policy and pedagogy. He has reported on stories ranging from underserved elementary schools in New York to the impact of immigration on schools near the border. His reports create a powerful image of educational disparities facing America and air regularly on NPR affiliate programs such as “Morning Edition,” “All Things Considered,” and “Weekend Edition.” He is an expert on the national education reform movement, speaking at public events addressing how America can fix its education system.

From 2006–07, Sánchez was a Nieman Journalism fellow at Harvard University. In 2008, Sánchez won First Prize in the Education Writers Association’s National Award for Education Reporting for his series on the student loan crisis. He also has won the Guillermo Martínez-Márquez Award for Best Spot News and the El Paso Press Club Award for Best Investigative Reporting. The Corporation for Public Broadcasting also recognized him for outstanding local news coverage. In 1985, he received one of broadcasting’s top honors, the Alfred I. duPont-Columbia University Silver Baton, for the series “Sanctuary: The New Underground Railroad,” which chronicled stories of immigrants.

CITATION
Claudio Sánchez, while serving as National Public Radio’s longtime education correspondent, you have enriched America’s understanding of vital issues in education. Your reporting surveys the policies crafted on Capitol Hill, the numerous attempts at reform, and the very personal stories of students, parents and teachers. You examine and amplify the ways education serves or frustrates people’s hopes and ambitions. You call America to action and offer us a roadmap for how to proceed. Your investigative reporting has allowed the call for educational reform to sound across the land. Through an enduring commitment to education as a human right, and especially for those in most need, you have embodied Vincentian values over a distinguished career. For these reasons and more, DePaul University is privileged to confer upon you the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa.
Catholic education is at the heart of the career of the Rev. Gregorio Bañaga, Jr., C.M. An influential leader and advocate in the Philippines and beyond, Fr. Bañaga empowered educators at every level to embrace their Catholic identity, improve their academic rigor and find meaning in their work. Fr. Bañaga believes that a robust education is made stronger when it is values based and rooted in faith. In his roles as a university president and leader of a national association of Catholic schools, Fr. Bañaga has emphasized that education not only can improve individual lives, but also can lift an entire nation.

Growing up in the Philippines, religious members of Fr. Bañaga’s family inspired him to consider the priesthood. He entered the Congregation of the Mission at a young age and was sent to Adamson University to earn a bachelor’s degree in philosophy. In 1979, he received a master’s degree in theology and was ordained as a priest. During the early years of his priesthood, Fr. Bañaga gave popular missions to different parts of the country and later became the pastor of St. Vincent de Paul Parish in Manila. After eight years he was assigned to the seminary to teach and train future priests. Looking back on this time, Fr. Bañaga says that his work as a missionary and seminary professor gave him a “foundation of faith” that would follow him throughout his journey as a Vincentian.

Fr. Bañaga continued his studies in the United States, earning a doctorate in organizational behavior in 1999 from Case Western Reserve University. His leadership skills were unmistakable, and soon he was called to serve back in the Philippines.

In 2003, he became the first alumnus to be named president of his alma mater, Adamson University. The school was founded by a Greek chemist and later was brought under the direction of the Congregation of the Mission. Fr. Bañaga soon emerged as a visionary leader who would launch the university into a new era of growth.

In his 12 years of service as Adamson’s president, Fr. Bañaga was known for his compassionate leadership, acknowledging the vital role of every individual in making a university run harmoniously. He led the university through a rigorous and successful accreditation process, and Adamson rose in the rankings as a result. Today it enjoys an “autonomous status” granted by the Commission on Higher Education—one among only 59 higher education institutions in the country with this status. He also reconnected the school with its Vincentian mission and heritage. By creating service opportunities and programs, he offered students tangible ways to use their talents to give back to the community.

Fr. Bañaga also has influenced the Catholic education system on a larger scale. He served as president of the Catholic Educational Association of the Philippines, overseeing more than 1,300 schools throughout the country. He helped bring resources and guidance to educators working in struggling mission schools in remote areas, empowering teachers who were providing a basic education to the country’s poor and marginalized.

Fr. Bañaga’s work at the university and his tireless advocacy for the Catholic education system have made a lasting difference. His zeal and vision inspired teachers and students to achieve at higher levels and to use their own success to help lift others out of poverty.

CITATION

Rev. Gregorio Bañaga, Jr., C.M., you have been a tireless champion of Catholic education, inspiring teachers and students alike to put their faith into action. Throughout your career, you have strengthened the Catholic education system in the Philippines and left a legacy that resonates in both rural schoolrooms and the halls of great universities. As president of Adamson University, you not only built on the school’s academic reputation but you also strengthened its Vincentian identity. Your efforts to connect university students with opportunities to serve the poor and marginalized reflect the Vincentian ideals of this university. For these reasons and more, DePaul University is privileged to confer upon you the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa.

RECESSIONAL
Todd London is one of the country’s leading proponents for the future of American theatre. In 18 years as artistic director of the New Dramatists, the nation’s oldest center for support of playwrights, he worked closely with hundreds of leading playwrights to develop their talents and encourage their careers. A prolific writer, his influential commentary published in books and journals has blended arts journalism and advocacy to advance the field of theatre. Today, he nurtures fresh talent and brings new voices to the stage through his leadership of the University of Washington School of Drama.

London was born and raised in Chicago, where he was exposed to the stage through his childhood participation in a musical theatre camp, Harand. Years later, while pursuing his undergraduate degree, he became involved in experimental performance and American avant-garde theatre. After college, he earned his MFA in directing and came to a career crossroads: should he write fiction, direct plays or leave the theatre entirely? He chose none of these paths, and instead earned his PhD in literary studies with hopes of becoming an English professor.

But he didn’t stray from the stage for long. While working on his PhD, he served as a guest director at the burgeoning Woolly Mammoth Theatre in Washington, D.C., and as literary manager at another company, devoted to new plays. He also started writing book and theatre reviews that appeared in the Washington Tribune. After earning his degree and moving to New York, writing became an even more integral part of his life. Rather than enter academia, he began work at Theatre Communications Group, researching and writing “The Artistic Home,” a landmark summary of 13 meetings that brought together more than 120 artistic directors from the nation’s leading nonprofit professional theatres. Publication of this seminal text in 1988 led to his next position as managing editor of American Theatre magazine.

He began writing regular essays about theatre, exploring a form of advocacy arts journalism. In the early 1990s he taught at New York University and Harvard, while serving as guest literary director at the American Repertory Theatre there. In 1996, he was named artistic director of New York’s New Dramatists, a center for playwrights. For the next 18 years, he worked closely with more than 150 of America’s leading playwrights. He also advocated nationally and internationally for hundreds more. Under his supervision, New Dramatists became well-known as a place for artists to share and create work. In 2001, London accepted a special Tony Award on behalf of New Dramatists. In 2005, he represented New Dramatists at the Obie Awards, where the organization received the Ross Wetzsteon Award for excellence.

Over the years, his influence expanded beyond his leadership of New Dramatists through his truthful and inspiring speeches and writings. In all, he has written, edited and contributed to 20 books, while regularly contributing essays to theatre magazines and blogs. This spring he published his first e-book with Dutch Kills Press, “15 Actors, 20 Years: Making Lives in and Out of the American Theatre.” Some of his best writing was compiled and published in the 2013 book of essays “The Importance of Staying Earnest.” In 2014, the University of Washington named him executive director of its School of Drama, where he also holds the school’s Floyd U. Jones Family Endowed Chair in Drama.

Since joining the school, London has worked to increase opportunities for students to collaborate with theatre professionals from Seattle and across the U.S.

He has been honored with many awards, which include the Theatre Communications Group’s first Visionary Leadership Award in 2009. He also won the prestigious George Jean Nathan Award for Dramatic Criticism in 1996-97 for his essays and a Milestone Award for his 2001 novel, “The World’s Room.” In 2014, he received the Miss Lilly Award, presented to a male theatre professional who is a champion of female theatre artists, as well as an award created by the Dramatists Guild of America especially for him, for exceptional service to playwrights.

Through his dedication to supporting new talent and the influential perspectives he shares with the world, London has made an indelible mark on contemporary American theatre.

CITATION

Todd London, contemporary American theatre stands on a solid foundation because of your decades of hard work developing new playwrights and theatre professionals. By blending your love of theatre and writing, you became one of the country’s most influential voices on the importance of theatre and arts in our world. Your 18 years as artistic director of New Dramatists helped to develop hundreds of playwrights, forever altering the landscape of contemporary American theatre. Now, as executive director of the University of Washington School of Drama, you are cultivating the next generation of actors, directors and designers. By nurturing talent, promoting education and advocating for diversity, your career reflects the Vincentian ideals of this university. For these reasons and more, DePaul University is privileged to confer upon you the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa.

RECESSIONAL
Grammy Award-winning singer-songwriter Lila Downs blends world music with traditional Latin music to create her own unique style. Over the course of her career, Downs has transformed her music into an original and distinctive call to humanity. Her energetic melodies lift her messages of social justice to inspire hope and provide a platform for social activism.

Downs’ music often takes listeners on a journey to her roots in her birthplace, Tlaxiaco, Oaxaca, Mexico. She is the daughter of artists: her mother is a Native American Mixtec singer and her father was an art professor and filmmaker who taught at the University of Minnesota. She showed interest in music at a young age, copying her favorite ranchera singers, and absorbing the diverse music found in her family record collection, everything from jazz to rock to opera to traditional Mexican music.

She was part of three different worlds: the Mexican “mestizo” culture, the U.S. culture, as well as the Native American culture of her mother’s family. She has lived in both the United States and Mexico at different times throughout her formative years and earned a bachelor’s degree in classical voice and anthropology from the University of Minnesota.

Inspired by her background and education, Downs became passionate about her Mexican roots and social causes, which is often reflected in her music. She has always been interested in combining genres and her music, which has included influences from traditional folk music, hip-hop, jazz and classical music. She sings in Spanish, English and in several of the indigenous languages of Mexico.

In all, Downs has produced 11 albums, many of which have earned major awards. She received her first Latin Grammy for the 2004 release “Una Sangre” (One Blood), and her second Latin Grammy for her 2012 album “Pecados y Milagros” (Sins and Miracles), which reached double-platinum sales in Mexico. This same release also earned her a Grammy for Best Regional Mexican Music Album.

She earned two more Latin Grammys for the 2014 collaborative release “Raiz” (with Soledad and Niña Pastori), and her recent 2015 album “Balas y Chocolate,” which according to reviews, “transcends language, carrying pure emotion...in a more politically charged way [that is] as much a lament as a call to action.” She dedicated “Balas y Chocolate” to her culture and its roots, expressing outrage over current situations in Mexico and U.S. immigration.

Downs has performed at such prestigious venues as the Lincoln Center and Carnegie Hall. In 2003, she performed the Oscar-nominated song “Burn it Blue” at the 75th Academy Awards; the song appeared on the soundtrack for “Frida,” a film in which Downs made her acting debut.

Downs has traveled the world performing music in countries as varied as the cultures that influence and inspire her.

Downs also has been involved with international health and humanitarian organizations, such as Amnesty International, Save the Children and the Pan American Health Organization, as well as educational scholarship programs for young women, such as Fondo Guadalupe Musalem.

Through her career with all its international fame and recognition, Downs has used song as a connection to her culture and to the lives and stories of those whose stories are too rarely told. We are a richer, more humane world because of her gift.

CITATION
Lila Downs, throughout your career you have inspired people with your music and profound passion for your cultural roots. You have proven time and time again that courage during hardship can lead to progress. Your dedication to social and cultural activism elicits change and infuses hope in your listeners and followers. By sharing your music with all, you remind people to strive for social justice and take pride in their heritage. Your lyrics define the time we live in, calling attention to the plight of the underserved through the stories you weave into your lyrics. The light your songs shed on important societal questions reflects the Vincentian ideals of this university. You serve as a reminder that we are global citizens with the capacity to make a positive impact through our daily actions. For these reasons and more, DePaul University is privileged to confer upon you the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa.

CLOSING REMARKS
Rev. Dennis H. Holtschneider, C.M., President, DePaul University

RECESSIONAL
Martin R. Castro grew up in the shadows of the steel mills in South Chicago, the first Mexican neighborhood in Chicago. His father, Ray, a political pioneer and community activist, instilled in his son the spirit of public service. That same spirit would propel Martin Castro to become an attorney, a community activist and a presidential appointee.

Castro started his life of community activism when he was only five years old. He followed his father, walking door to door, campaigning for presidential candidate Robert Kennedy. For a Mexican-American kid growing up in South Chicago at that time, becoming a steel worker was the usual course. The Castros wanted more for Martin. He would be the first in his family to finish high school and pursue a higher education. Castro became a Blue Demon, graduating with a bachelor’s degree in political science from DePaul in 1985.

Despite a one-time dream of becoming the first Latino astronaut, Castro chose to study law instead. After seeing the political process firsthand when his father ran for 7th ward committeeman, he noticed that the people making decisions for his community were not from his community. Of his decision, Castro has said, “They didn’t look like me, they didn’t look like my community, and they were all lawyers. I didn’t want anyone to make decisions for me, so I decided to become a lawyer.” He graduated from law school in 1988 and was admitted to the Illinois Bar that same year.

He joined the prestigious firm of Baker & McKenzie, where his responsibilities included leading the firm’s minority recruitment efforts. He left the law firm to become vice president, managing director of business development and acting general counsel at Juritas.com, a legal-related Internet company.

Castro then formed the private law firm Castro, Gomez, Durbin & de Jesus with three other attorneys. His work included corporate law, commercial litigation, diversity consulting and government affairs. Castro also ran for U.S. Congress in Illinois. While he did not make it to Congress, he became a partner at Seyfarth Shaw, then moved on to the law firm of Sonnenschein, Nath & Rosenthal. Castro then joined the corporate sector as regional vice president of external affairs at Aetna.

Castro founded and now serves as president and CEO of Castro Synergies, LLC, which provides consulting services to corporations, entrepreneurs and non-profit organizations whose projects will have a positive social impact on diverse communities.

In December 2009, Illinois Governor Pat Quinn appointed Castro to chair the Illinois Human Rights Commission, the state’s public body that arbitrates complaints of civil rights violations in housing, employment, public accommodations and financial credit. Two years later, in January 2011, President Barack Obama appointed him to the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights. By March, President Obama elevated Mr. Castro to the position of chairperson of the USCCR, making him the agency’s eighth chair since the formation of the commission, and the first Latino chairperson in the over half-century history of the agency.

Castro is past chair of the board of the National Museum of Mexican Art, serves or has served on the boards of the Chicago Community Trust and the Mexican American Legal Defense and Educational Fund, and is the former chair of the Hispanic National Bar Association U.S. Supreme Court Committee. Castro also chaired the Judicial Nominations Commission for the Northern District of Illinois, by appointment of U.S. Senator Richard Durbin.

Castro received numerous awards and recognitions, including the National Medical Fellowships’ Humanitarian Award; the Hispanic National Bar Association’s Cesar Chavez Humanitarian Award; the Edwin A. Rothschild Civil Liberties Award from the American Civil Liberties Union of Illinois; and the Thurgood Marshall Lifetime Achievement Award from the Association of Corporate Counsel, Chicago Chapter.

His noteworthy career provides an honorable example to future DePaul alumni of what can be achieved by a life devoted to advocating for others.

CITATION

Martin R. Castro, your commitment to community activism and human rights is deeply rooted in your family, your culture, your views of social justice and your Vincentian foundation here at DePaul. Like your father once did, you too proudly serve your community and country. Throughout your illustrious legal career, and as chairman of the United States Commission on Civil Rights, you have been a champion of civil rights, protecting those who have been marginalized by discrimination. In addition, you have made it your mission to help young Latinos reach the American dream through higher education in order to pass on the spirit of public service and community involvement. For these reasons and more, DePaul University is privileged to confer upon you the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa.

CLOSING REMARKS
Rev. Dennis H. Holtschneider, C.M., President, DePaul University

RECESSIONAL
After graduating from DePaul with degrees in mathematics and law, Kerrie Holley launched a career in information technology that led to major advances within the industry. He holds several patents, was an IBM Fellow and now serves as vice president and chief technology officer of the software platforms group at Cisco, the largest networking company in the world. Along the way, he never forgot his roots.

Holley was raised by his grandmother on the South Side of Chicago in an area known for violence and poverty. His grandmother steered him at a young age to spend his after-school hours at Sue Duncan’s Children’s Center, a program run by the mother of a future secretary of education, Arne Duncan. For many years, Holley spent his free time at the center—first as a pupil and later as a tutor—and discovered his love of mathematics. By age 13, he so excelled with numbers that he began handling the center’s accounting records.

He chose DePaul for college and pursued a degree in mathematics, using his computer software skills to solve math problems. He earned his bachelor’s degree in 1976 and a degree in law in 1982. Holley remained involved with his alma mater by serving on the College of Computing and Digital Media Leadership Council from 2010 to 2014, and, more recently, by becoming a member of the university’s board of trustees.

After graduation, Holley pursued his dream to work in information technology, first in Chicago and then in San Francisco. In 1986, he joined IBM in what would become a career lasting nearly 30 years. At IBM, he quickly established a reputation for hard work, creative problem-solving and innovation. Over the years, he introduced several groundbreaking technological advancements, including improving banking applications; creating the first e-commerce site for a major retailer; and devising a location-based service to provide recovery assistance for misplaced or stolen mobile devices, an invention for which he holds a patent.

One of his most noteworthy advancements in information technology was the creation of IBM’s strategy for service-oriented architecture, or SOA. SOA turns application portfolios into tools akin to LEGO bricks—building blocks that can be arranged and rearranged to create new applications. Using SOA, organizations can restructure software into new solutions without starting from scratch, allowing companies to respond faster to technology needs.

In recognition of his achievements and leadership in the field of software engineering, in 2006 he was named an IBM Fellow, the company’s highest technical leadership position. The distinction, granted to only a handful of IBM employees, meant Holley could pursue whatever projects interested him. Before becoming an IBM Fellow, he was named an IBM Distinguished Engineer, the first African-American at IBM to hold the honor, and became a part of the IBM Academy of Technology, comprised of the top 300 technologists at the company. Among his other distinctions, U.S. Black Engineer & Information Technology magazine named him one of the Top 50 Black Research Scientists in 2012. In addition to holding several patents, Holley also has written two books and published articles in peer-reviewed research publications and other venues.

Since September 2015, he has been vice president and chief technology officer for the software platform group at Cisco. In this role, he engages in driving the analytics and automation software portfolio. Holley’s pioneering work in information technology is a clear inspiration and motivation for DePaul students who hope to follow in his path.

CITATION

Kerrie Holley, as a young man growing up in Chicago, you recognized the critical role that education would play in helping you escape poverty. With hard work and inspiration from your mentors, you earned degrees at DePaul in mathematics and law, and then launched a career in information technology that would forever alter the industry. You created and implemented IBM’s strategy for service-oriented architecture, a software solution that allows companies to focus on innovation without building new programs from scratch. Your skills and creative mindset led IBM to name you an IBM Fellow, a prestigious distinction that reflected the company’s faith in you as an innovator. Now a mentor yourself, you reflect the Vincentian ideals of your alma mater by encouraging others to succeed. DePaul alumni and students can find true inspiration in your life and transformational career. For these reasons and more, DePaul University is privileged to confer upon you the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa.

CLOSING REMARKS
Rev. Dennis H. Holtschneider, C.M., President, DePaul University

RECESSIONAL
Over the course of almost 30 years at the world’s largest beverage manufacturer, Kathy N. Waller rose from senior accountant in accounting research to chief financial officer, a role in which she is directly responsible for overseeing the firm’s annual net revenues of over $40 billion. Today, as executive vice president and CFO of The Coca-Cola Company, she is a respected global leader in finance with a passion for sharing the learnings she has obtained from her life’s journey with others. And in particular, to share her learnings with those who are starting on their own journey.

Waller was born in Atlanta, Georgia, the youngest of four children. After graduating high school, she moved to Rochester, New York, and earned her bachelor’s degree. While she was preparing to take the LSAT to enter law school, she worked with the City of Rochester’s budget bureau program and discovered a passion for finance. This convinced her to switch gears and pursue an MBA.

After earning her MBA, she became a certified public accountant and began her career in public accounting working for Deloitte, one of the industry’s leading tax and auditing firms. When Waller left Deloitte and began working for Coca-Cola in 1987, she never believed it would be the beginning of an almost 30-year career with the company. She started in accounting research before progressing into financial services on an international level, serving as principal accountant for Coca-Cola’s Northeast Europe and Africa branches.

From there, she took on roles of increasing responsibility, including chief of internal audit, controller and vice president of finance, and had many accomplishments in these positions. In 2014, Coca-Cola’s board of directors elected her to become the company’s CFO and EVP. As CFO, Waller is responsible for leading the company’s global finance organization and representing the company to investors, lenders and rating agencies. She oversees mergers and acquisitions, investor relations, tax, audit, accounting and controls, reporting and analysis, real estate and risk management. Waller is also responsible for overseeing revenues of more than $40 billion from Coca-Cola’s more than 500 products and operations in over 200 countries.

In public appearances and in interviews, Waller often alludes to having two jobs: one in finance and another one in advancing the careers of women in business. In 2007, she became leader of Coca-Cola’s Women’s Leadership Council and helped develop the program into an opportunity for women to advance their careers within the company. Waller also serves on the advisory board of Catalyst, a nonprofit organization aimed at expanding business opportunities for women.

Waller serves on the board of directors for Coca-Cola FEMSA, Monster Energy Company and Delta Air Lines. In addition to those responsibilities, she is involved in her community and serves on numerous boards, including the Woodruff Arts Center board of trustees, the board of trustees for the University of Rochester, her alma mater, and the board of trustees for Spelman College. She is a member of the National Association of Black MBAs and Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Inc. In 2007, Treasury and Risk Magazine named her one of its “100 most influential people” in the finance designation.

Through her leadership on numerous boards and her roles at Coca-Cola, she has dedicated herself not only to her work, but to a career improving diversity and inclusion in the business world.

CITATION

Kathy N. Waller, as chief financial officer and executive vice president of the world’s largest beverage company, you exemplify how great success can be used as a force of good. In nearly 30 years at The Coca-Cola Company, you rose through positions of increasing responsibility while maintaining the highest standards of fiscal integrity. You use the influence of your important role at Coca-Cola to encourage a more diverse workforce. You have staunchly advocated for including more women in careers in business and you continue to nurture and have inspired minorities to use their talents in business and civic life. Your pursuit of educational advancement and steadfast devotion to higher education are reminders that learning is an ongoing and lifelong process. Throughout your renowned career, you have embodied the values set forth by St. Vincent de Paul and this university. For these reasons and more, DePaul University is privileged to confer upon you the Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa.
Joseph A. McInerney
Hospitality Industry Leader and Author

For more than 50 years, Joseph A. McInerney has been serving those who serve, and in the process, making the experience of leaving home nicer for all of us.

A leader in the hospitality industry, McInerney is the president and chief executive officer of McInerney Hospitality International, LLC, an international consulting practice. He also serves as president emeritus and chief executive officer of the American Hotel and Lodging Association, the national association representing all segments of the 1.9 million-employee U.S. lodging industry.

Born and raised in Chicago, McInerney began his hospitality career in 1961 at the Sheraton Chicago. After being promoted to regional director of operations, he moved to Winston-Salem, North Carolina, to serve as general manager of the Sheraton Inn. Promoted again in 1970 to vice president, then assistant to the president of the franchise division, he continued to move up the ranks until he was named president of ITT’s Sheraton franchise division in 1979.

McInerney spent 25 years with Sheraton before the Pritzker family recruited him to launch Hawthorn Suites as president and CEO. His innovative ideas and entrepreneurial spirit successfully popularized the new franchise’s suites concept. In 1991, he moved on to become president and CEO of Travelodge and was named chairman of Forte Hotels in 1995. His visionary restructuring and strengthening of the Forte brand enhanced the company’s profile, resulting in a significant profit upon its sale.

After leaving Forte Hotels, McInerney worked on a project for several months in Moscow, Russia, evaluating hotels for the city. McInerney then joined the Pacific Asia Travel Association. He left PATA in 2001 to join the American Hotel and Lodging Association. During his time at the AH&LA, McInerney reorganized the association to streamline efficiency and strengthen its core operations. He restructured the board of directors and refined the organization’s mission.

A United States Army veteran, McInerney is a Certified Hotel Administrator through the Educational Institute, an affiliate of AH&LA, and is the author of “Change Is the New Status Quo,” a book about leadership, management, people and lessons learned from his time in the hotel, hospitality and tourism industries.

McInerney has received several hospitality industry awards and accolades, including the Hospitality Financial and Technology Professionals Paragon Award; the Food & Beverage Association Industry Professional of the Year; the J. Patrick Leahy Lifetime Achievement Award from the Illinois Hotel and Lodging Association; and the first Founding Member award from DePaul’s School of Hospitality Leadership.

His longstanding commitment to DePaul dates back to the School of Hospitality Leadership’s inception, having served as the founding chairman of the Hospitality Advisory Council. His dedication to DePaul endures through the creation of the Joseph A. McInerney Family Endowed Scholarship, which assists hospitality students in need with tuition.

His vast experience in the hotel industry and his extensive international experience have given McInerney a global perspective, an unparalleled understanding of the various business models, as well as the sensitivities of cultural diversity to become the globally recognized hospitality industry leader he is today.

CITATION
Joseph A. McInerney, under your half-century of entrepreneurial leadership, you have strengthened the hospitality industry by shaping its standards and its business models as well as by fostering quality hospitality education. Through your commitment and support of DePaul University and the School for Hospitality Leadership, you are preparing our students to become well-trained professionals who are ready to manage, lead and serve. By creating the Joseph A. McInerney Family Endowed Scholarship, you developed a way for your legacy of exemplary hospitality to live on through future generations of students. Drawing upon your Catholic roots and your Vincentian spirit to serve others, you have furthered an industry that provides its customers sustenance, comfort, safety and a home away from home. For these reasons and more, DePaul University is privileged to confer upon you the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa.
